

Piano Trio (1990, rev.1993)

My piano trio reflects the historical authenticity of this genre by excavating fragments of one of the key works of the 19th century repertoire (Brahms' op.101). These fragments appear in different forms: as remnants of a destructed whole, as inherited gestures or as a point of departure in an organic process of transformation.